Dear Senator:

As 59 national and state medical, public health, and consumer organizations dedicated to children's health and safety, we write in support of legislation to ban hazardous crib bumpers and infant inclined sleep products. These Senate bills are known as the Safe Cribs Act and the Safe Sleep Act, respectively.

In their early stages of development, infants are uniquely vulnerable to sleep-related fatalities. Expert safe sleep recommendations have contributed to safer sleep environments for infants and fewer sleep-related fatalities. These safe sleep recommendations include placing babies on their back, and on a separate, flat, firm surface with no restraints, soft bedding, or other products. However, infants and families remain at risk due to the presence of dangerous infant sleep products that remain on the market.

Crib bumpers are inconsistent with expert recommendations and have no place in a safe sleep environment. They have led to dozens of infant suffocation deaths and provide no meaningful safety benefit. The Safe Cribs Act would protect infants from sleep-related deaths by prohibiting the manufacture, sale, and distribution of padded crib bumpers. The states of Maryland, Ohio, and New York, as well as several cities, have banned the manufacture and sale of crib bumpers. We urge Congress to pass the Safe Cribs Act so that all infants in the United States are similarly protected.

Infant inclined sleep products are also inherently unsafe and incompatible with expert safe sleep recommendations. These products, such as the now-recalled Fisher-Price Rock 'n Play Sleeper, have been linked to the confirmed deaths of at least 93 infants. They present several risks, including positional asphyxia when the inclined sleep surface leads an infant to sleep in a position that restricts their airway, and suffocation when the products' soft padding interferes with breathing or when infants roll onto their stomachs while in the products. The Safe Sleep Act would ban any product with an inclined sleep surface greater than ten degrees that is intended, marketed, or designed to provide sleeping accommodations for an infant up to 1 year old.

We urge you to support the Safe Cribs Act and the Safe Sleep Act to help prevent more families from experiencing the tragedy of losing a child to crib bumper pads and infant inclined sleep products. These bills offer a vital opportunity to protect children from preventable sleep-related deaths and promote safer sleep environments.
